Urban Style

This minimalistic style highlights the clean lines and natural features in the industrial style without harsh elements. Urban style uses materials such as wood, stone, and metals to create an environmental atmosphere. The style avoids bright colors and eccentric patterns to enhance a natural feel. The style's color scheme tends to lean towards warm neutrals.

Outdoor Incorporations

Elements such as living plants and wood planks can be implemented to create a seamless flow from the outside in.

Architectural Multipurpose Space

This kitchenette is able to be closed up to create additional walking room around the living area. When closed, it creates a minimalistic and urban style to the space.

Architectural Multipurpose Space

By hollowing out the stairs and inserting shelving, storage space can be created within a necessary element.

Architectural Multipurpose Space

This shower/sink is adjustable and can be used from above as the bowl or from below as a rainfall shower head.

Non-Architectural Multipurpose Space

This piece of furniture does not only provide storage but can be made to add extra surface area to create additional space for when in need.

Non-Architectural Multipurpose Space

Initially this stool could be used as seating for a desk. Each panel comes apart to create five different seats to accommodate for guests.

Non-Architectural Multipurpose Space

This cabinet starts out as a console table. As adjusted can be used as a guest bed or a desk. It also can be moved anywhere in the home so it's very versatile.

Tiny House Study

Architectural Multipurpose Space

Using the top of the cabinets as a footrest and the lighting to double as a seat this young woman created a home office/study den that doubles as a guest

Non-Architectural Multipurpose Space

Everyone has to use the bathroom. This woman added wheels to her compostable toilet to double it as a stool so that she can reach her higher placed storage areas.
